

July 12, 2011

Jenni Dunning

An alumnus of Chicago's Second City has makeup tips for Casey Anthony, like how to use duct tape to get rid of worry lines and coverup to hide that pesky guilt.

Writer and actor Megan Grano said it was "very easy" to come up with jokes for the video because she was so affected by the trial.

"I try to choose stuff that invokes some sort of feeling for me," she told the Star from L.A. "Her case really got me steamed, so I wanted to do something that was hopefully funny on it."

Grano has received mixed reviews of the video, while some people against the verdict thank her for a laugh, others who support Anthony are deeply bothered.

"It's interesting to try to get a (sense) for how people are feeling," said Grano.

"It was very cathartic in a weird sort of way. It doesn't actually do anything to fix what I consider a tremendous injustice, but it did give (me) a laugh."

Grano, a Second City member in 2008, demonstrates her makeup tips in a video entitled "Makeup Tips: Casey Anthony Look." She works on a woman who looks similar to Anthony, brown ponytail and all.

"See how this looks just peachy and how you can hardly tell it's there?" Grano says in the video while slathering liquid makeup over the word "guilty" written on the woman's cheek.

A highlight of the video comes when Grano, an actor and improv teacher, gives the woman a temporary tattoo that sticks to her skin as 'evil' instead of the intended 'Bella Vita.'

The videos are shot and edited by Second City's Mike Damanskis and posted on Second City's YouTube page.

This clip is one of several Grano has done as the character Michelle Fan. The others include makeup tips for The Maria Shriver Look, The Megan Fox Look, and The Sarah Palin Presidential Look.

She began doing the videos after Shriver and Arnold Schwarzenegger's divorce went public.

Since then, she has received dozens of emails from people asking her to do makeup tips for particular celebrities, including Lady Gaga, Ke$ha and Michele Bachmann.

"We're trying to debate who to do next and who's most relevant," she said.

"The key is to do things that make you laugh, that you find funny because I think that everybody's going to have an opinion. If you don't like it, that's always going to bleed through."

A Chicago Second City alumnus has makeup tips for Casey Anthony, like how to use duct tape to get rid of worry lines and how to use coverup to hide guilt.

SCREENGRAB